FIRST MEETING OF NEW BOARD OF EDUCATION

Organize and Decide Matters of Interest to Utah Teachers—Important Resolution.

Organization was completed at the first business meeting of the new state board of education yesterday, A. C. Nelson, state superintendent of education, being re-elected chairman; J. T. Kingsbury, president of the state university, secretary; and A. L. Larson, assistant secretary. Carl R. Marcussen of Price, who is the only new member, was seated.

The board decided that holders of summer school certificates of a full term, who have had some teaching experience, may be recommended for teachers' certificates. Those who have not had experience may be recommended for a twelve months' teaching certificate if they have had three full years in the high school and one full term at the summer school.

The scheme of the summer school of the university to offer a special course for teachers of ten weeks, giving second as well as first term work, was approved.

It was decided to grant holders of kindergarten certificates the privilege of teaching in the first and second grades.

A recommendation of Professor William M. Stewart and Professor Milton Bennion of the state university that high school teachers before being granted High school certificates be required to do some professional work in the subject of education, will be discussed Monday.

A. C. Nelson and C. R. Marcussen will prepare eighth grade examination questions and fix a date for these examinations.

A resolution was adopted, the effect of which will be to exempt from county examinations this year teachers whose record of last year shows an average of 75 per cent in all subjects, and not less than 60 per cent in any one subject, if their county superintendents endorse their work, and if they file with the state superintendent not less than six units of accredited summer work. Even if they have not taken the summer school work they will be exempt if they show an examination record of last year of 80 per cent.

Teachers' licenses will be considered Monday, when the date for teachers' examinations will be fixed for various parts of the state, and an examining board appointed.

MACADAM ROCK TESTED AS PAVING MATERIAL

The State School of Mines has recently published another engineering bulletin. This publication has for its basis a series of tests made on macadam rock, the quarries tested being adjacent to Salt Lake City. There has been some question in the minds of people in the state as to the value of macadam roads, because some of the roads built of macadam rock have not been entirely satisfactory. The bulletin states that it is impossible for any engineer to select a good first-class rock without tests being made on it to determine its wearing qualities, toughness, etc., and that the School of Mines, recognizing the importance of road building, and the impetus road building is receiving, as well as the necessity for selecting the best material to be had, have installed a road-testing laboratory. This laboratory is a part of the regular testing laboratory in the department of mechanical engineering.

The bulletin has been prepared by Professor E. H. Beckstrand, professor of mechanical engineering, and member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and also member of the American Society for Testing Materials. Twenty-seven different quarries were sampled, and the samples tested for coefficient of wear, for toughness, for recementing value of rock dust and for weathering. These samples show very varying qualities, some coming up to the standards set for acceptable road materials, and others falling far below. Limestones, granites and several other kinds of rock are among the materials tested. The limestones from different quarries, although showing similar properties to the eye, are very different in their value as road materials. The bulletin also discusses the standard tests adopted by the American Society for Testing Materials, and points out how the properties of the rock should vary with the traffic on the road. This bulletin, as well as others, will be distributed free to any who might be interested in the results.

NO MORE SHORTAGES FOUND BY AUDITORS

Jesse D. Jewkes, state auditor, has completed the special audit in which he had the assistance of C. Albert Glazier, state bank examiner. No further shortages of James Christiansen have been found than those with which he is charged, amounting to $20,000. It is the opinion of Mr. Jewkes that the amounts in the charges are all against the former state treasurer. In May Mr. Jewkes will send out one or both of his deputies on a circuit audit, which may develop some few items, though nothing unusual is expected. Mr. Christiansen has not yet been required to plead to the charges against him.
